Re: Amanda White

Date: August 17, 2002

Amanda was a student of mine at The Boston Conservatory for four years and is currently studying with me privately.

She is highly motivated searching out competitions and performance opportunities.

I have observed her as a performer doing scenes for the Opera Department as well as in studio recitals and found her to be very good and capable of understanding both roles and text.

Amanda communicates well with both faculty and students. She has an outgoing personality, is well spoken and articulate.

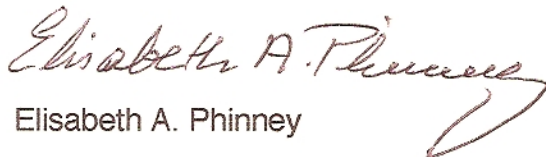

During the years she has always come well-prepared with her music so we can mainly work on technique and phrasing of musical line.

Her musicality is excellent; learning her music fast with great accuracy.

On a personal note I have found her to be very pleasant and a welcomed challenge to work with.

Amanda is a very academically oriented person.

I recommend her highly for your consideration.
